Kerri Johnson

GOMO Travel

After 30 years in nursing and medical sales, GOMO founder Kerri Johnson began to consider the next chapter in her life.

As an avid world-traveler who had spent decades learning the logistics of travel, Kerri sought a way to combine her wanderlust with her passion for helping people in need. She recalled the words of former patients who had expressed regret about not taking the opportunity to travel more, or felt like there was no longer a way for them to finally take that dream vacation or spend more time with loved ones living in other parts of the country.

With a host of options before her, Kerri opted to pursue her passion and start her own business. Thus, GOMO Travel was born, and she has devoted herself to helping people overcome their travel challenges ever since.

GOMO utilizes Registered Nurses as Travel Companions to provide safe travel for anyone who needs a helping hand. Above all else, Kerri's goal is to normalize assisted travel and make the entire world accessible to anyone who wants to see it.
